

i come to you today with a message of warning and a message of hope. i cannot over emphasize the urgency i am feeling in my spirit. and it is not just me. when i look around at those i respect on television, i feel the urgency in their messages also. we believe this is the final generation, the end of the end times, and the decisions of a multitude of souls lies in the balance. we seek to save them from the wrath to come.

i don't know how anyone living in this day's world can fail to see the darkness coming. even as night closes in on day, it will soon be too dark to see. a darkness so thick and heavy, to speak the truth may well cost one their life. but God, You are the constant in my life. though all that is good is forsaken, Your throne will never be shaken. You are the rock of truth that shall stand forever.

the time is quickly coming when one can no longer walk down the middle and seek compromise. good can never compromise with evil. the passions of the heart will be divided. one towards a passion for evil. the other for a passion of God. we are either for or against Him. "I know your works, that you are neither cold nor hot. I could wish you were cold or hot. so then, because you are lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will vomit you out of My mouth." rev 3:15-16 those seeking compromise, those seeking to appease error, to get along, will bear their own consequences. will this generation have fully earned all the terror that is coming upon them?

perhaps i remember this scene from television most because i can relate. a young man, as he passed, purposefully tripped an old woman on a walker. he then turned to watch her fall. there was no compassion or sorrow. only a desire to be amused by another's hurt.

matthew 24 says there will be two in the bed and only one taken. sounds to me like there are a lot of people unequally yoked. if someone does not experience the rapture, they will have to live through a horror like the world has never known before. He says, "except those days should be shortened, there should no flesh be saved". matt 24:22 will the rapture come before the tribulation? i believe with all my heart it will. the flood didn't come until God shut the door of the ark. sodom wasn't destroyed until lot and his group were removed. the evil of the world differs from God's judgements. the word says there will be seven years of tribulation. a jewish wedding is seven days long. sounds like a perfect time for bride to become the wife. in rev 19 He calls her wife instead of bride.

the tribulation - a time like has never yet been known. all the death and pain that this world has known shall fail in comparison. (like the pain of a child constantly being molested in sex trafficking.) the seven seals, the seven trumpets, and the seven vials - each containing their own separate punishments.

in the opening of the third seal it says, "see thou hurt not the oil and the wine". the wine could mean that luxury items will be in abundance, while items of necessity will be scarce. the oil could mean the Holy Spirit will still be there to redeem those who know they have missed the rapture (walking a compromised life). millions may be saved during the tribulation, but will their martyrdom be the cost? there will be 144 thousand jews evangelizing, along with the two witnesses prophesying. (i don't know if they are real jews or represent those with the truth.)

and then we go to the fourth seal. there will be death by many means, including by the beasts of the earth. God will remove the fear of man from the beasts which He placed on them in genesis 9. "and the fear of you and the dread of you shall be upon every beast of the earth." gen 9:2 will the little pet you love turn upon you with a fierceness you have never seen? things will be so horrible that "men seek death, and shall not find it; and shall desire to die, and death shall flee from them." rev 9:6 and what of the judgements to come?

considering all these things, are you still apathetic or fearful about sharing your faith? are you willing to doom someone to all this suffering simply because you might be laughed at? who knows what preparation the Holy Spirit has done in another's heart or what they might be going through? they might be fruit ripe for picking. the groundwork may have been laid by others, and you may be the last chance someone has to receive. they may also be someone who has never heard of this great gift.

years ago, i printed up a little tract. the front of it said "a gift for you". inside was the message of the gospel. a friend and i used to leave our tip inside it every where we ate or we just handed it out at random. everyone always opened it up to see what the gift was. (everyone loves a free gift.) whether they received it or not was up to them. it always is.

there are those seeking to justify their sin. they demand acceptance, even of their sin. ashamedly, too many pastors accommodate them in fear of losing membership or revenue. "for the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears." 2 tim 4:3 they seek the compromise so many are deceived into.

how long before God gives them over? "and even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient." rom 1:28 "He hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their heart; that they should not see with their eyes, nor understand with their heart, and be converted, and I should heal them." john 12:40

we accept them, but not their sin. "now the works of the flesh are evident, which are: adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lewdness, idolatry, sorcery, hatred, contentions, jealousies, outbursts of wrath, selfish ambitions, dissensions, heresies, envy, murders, drunkenness, revelries, and the like; of which i tell you beforehand, just as i also told you in time past, that those who practice such things will not inherit the kingdom of God." gal 5:19-21

as we travel our individual paths through life, we arm ourselves with the weapons that are most powerful. "for the weapons of our warfare are not carnal but mighty in God for pulling down strongholds, casting down arguments and every high thing that exalts itself against the knowledge of God." 2 cor 10:4-5 "if your enemy is hungry, feed him; if he is thirsty, give him a drink; for in so doing you will heap coals of fire on his head." rom 12:20

they are coals of fire of judgement. we do not rejoice in this, but sorrow of what they have missed. we disarm them with the truth. we wound them with arrows of conviction. we strike the mortal wound with love. as we battle, we divert all the arrows of the enemy with our shield of faith. standing steadfast and, "being confident of this very thing, that He who has begun a good work in you will complete it until the day of Jesus Christ." phil 1:6

to the unbelievers, all i have spoken is foolishness. to the believers, has this thorn pricked your finger. i do not seek a mortal wound. only one that requires attention unless it festers. have you felt my urgency yet or are you still seeking an easy path down the middle? the path of "just getting along". we have seen others as they took a stand and what they endured. "whosoever shall deny me before men, him will I also deny before my Father which is in heaven." matt 10:33 i have exposed my heart. what else can i do?
