

on an example topic of where this sinful world is headed, i will relate this story. i have always watched the show "survivor". just found it interesting to see how some people would throw out all their moral beliefs just because they were playing a game and it was therefore ok. people still get hurt. well, this season the host asked them all if the way he used to greet them as "guys" was offensive. they all said no at first but one later changed their minds and now the host will drop the term "guys".

everybody pushes political correctness. not only are they always careful to have a same sex couple, but this time they have a man, married to a supposedly man, who really is a transgender person, now pregnant with his child. can the world get any more convoluted and rebellious than this? i shudder to think so. they are doing all they can to make every one accept these things as normal behavior. one standing with God must acknowledge these actions are not in His will. i even know of same sex churches that profess to be christian, trying to justify their lifestyle as acceptable to God. we are told in Jude 1:23 "And others save with fear, pulling them out of the fire; hating even the garment spotted by the flesh."

we know that the war we wage is not in the natural but in the spiritual. i always think of john 10:10. "The thief does not come except to steal, and to kill, and to destroy. I have come that they may have life, and that they may have it more abundantly." we do not hate the person but we recognize the work evil is having in their lives. the wages of sin is death. not only in this life but also in the next.

too many of us magnify the problem before us. it is nothing to God. the day will come when He says He will roll every thing up and create all things new. i, for one, can imagine the new being so much better. more color. more sounds. more beauty altogether. and even as the universe now continues to expand because His word never ceases, the new will also continue to show us new things to marvel at. i have a feeling that God has reserved His best for the last. he will show us what He is really capable of. things one can only stand in awe of and reveal more of why He is worthy.

this life, these trials we all experience cannot dim the glory set before us. just to stand in His presence and behold Him will be joy unspeakable. the apostle paul said he saw things which were not lawful for man to utter. the few He has given this taste to causes us all to eagerly await the revealing. is it no wonder they all turned the world upside down and loved not their lives, even unto death. the revealing of the sons of God. the revealing of His original plan for us. a life not lived just in thousands of years, but for eternity.

so often i wonder how the devil could ever have rebelled and enticed others. but his beauty was so great and his sounds so sweet, he thought he could usurp the one who created him. the tragedy is that now, that same spirit has overtaken man. man who in no way understands the power and glory of the spiritual realm. but the devil had shared that spirit with man. he too can be as God. Father, please open their eyes while there is yet still time. time to repent and realize from where we have all fallen.
