an appointed time

"for the vision is yet for an appointed time; but at the end it will speak, and it will not lie. though it tarries, wait for it; because it will surely come, it will not tarry." hab 2:3

when someone has an appointment they usually keep close watch so as not to miss it. well that's exactly what we are doing. we are not "predicting" the day and hour but we are watching with anticipation it's arrival. yes i believe the rapture of the church is going to be this year and already i can hear some saying, "what if it isn't? won't it disappoint many, wounding their faith?"

i am here to proclaim that i am already disappointed everyday when i don't hear my Lord's call. we can not be like the world which scoffs and says, "where is the promise of His coming? for since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of creation." 2 pet 3:4 God has made an appointment with us and He will keep it. i, along with many others, believe that time is imminent. we are commanded to watch and be prepared - with extra oil.

even now i can also hear many of you saying, "linda has finally gone off the deep end." if that means i have dove into waters over my head, then i have to agree. i believe our Lord wants us to venture into the deep. rapture, this year, yes i really believe it's not only possible, but VERY likely. all i can say is, "swim with me if you will."

it is the end times. seals are being opened to understanding here-to-for hidden. full understanding has not been given to one, but scattered among the many, when gathered together unseals a truth. understanding like true pentecost not being what tradition says it is, but a full fifty days later. the feast shavuot was not pentecost but ascension day, making true pentecost the 9th of av (our july 26 sundown) around the feast of wine (a day or so preceding). this was when the israelites were meant to enter the promised land, but instead came back with a bad report resulting in their forty years of wilderness wandering. "therefore, since a promise remains of entering His rest, let us fear lest any of you seem to have come short of it." heb 4:1

tradition has taught Jesus walked here only 40 days, not enough to fulfill a set feast, so they decided the needed days to shavuot would be pentecost. that leaves ascension day on a solitary, undesignated feast day when the whole life and death of Jesus was to fulfill the scriptures. they do not add the 40 days mentioned to the appearance to mary, the eight days in john 20:26, or those on the road to emmaus in mark 16. that would have brought them to shavuot, making it ascension day; thus true pentecost fifty days hence on the feast of new wine. once you see it you just can't unsee it.

yes, rapture is imminent. look at the convergence of signs that have never happened before. i.e, rebirth of israel, digital currency, artificial intelligence, UFO's, apostasy, the "pride" of sin and lawlessness, mark of beast technology, essentially meeting all the fulfillment of last days prophecy. let us not forget the wars and rumored wars or how the creation itself (earth) is violently groaning. then we have the seven year treaty the UN is making with many in late september; around the feast of trumpets. "then he shall confirm a covenant with many for one week." dan 9:27 no, we cannot definitely say this is the treaty the antichrist will also confirm, essentially kicking off the tribulation, but it certainly fits the bill. have i not peaked your "watch" alarm yet?

none of us are claiming that God appeared to us and revealed this, but searching the scriptures has revealed truths sealed long ago; there all along. ask yourself if you truly believe Jesus is coming again, and if you do, then why could this time "not" be a possibility? if it doesn't happen i will continue to look excitedly at the next "high watch" time... and the next and the next thereafter. let our expectant heart never fail to expect for the church must be as a woman in labor, waiting for the delivery - the appointed time. someday it will be the day and if we're not watching, it will take us unaware. "but you, brethren, are not in darkness, so that this DAY should overtake you as a thief." 1 thes 5:4

this is the time to lay aside all that separates us and look to the uniting of His church; forgetting that one is superior or inferior. i have one dear to me who is even now laying in a sickbed. i asked how she was spiritually and if she was staying in the word. she said, "i say my rosary everyday." people, denominations and traditions of men will not save us.

we must keep our eyes on Jesus.

i would honestly ask, how much longer do you think this turmoil could continue without mankind destroying their self. either that or the seed of mankind becoming unrecognizable as God's creation - perhaps as in the days of noah. then there's lot's time; even now "pride" month becomes pride summer, preceding the fall and possible destruction (possibly when the UN seven year treaty is confirmed).

i am here to herald the call to all those the Lord has put within my reach. each of you know a multitude of souls i will never know. if you have believed our report. i urge you to encourage their hearts with this message. who knows what persecution us or our brethren may face in the remaining days and how they might become disheartened and lose hope. don't give up now. the vision will come at the appointed time and it will not tarry.

even now i can hear many of you saying, "if all this is so, why aren't the great pastors of the day revealing it?" firstly, because we have not utilized all the offices of the Holy Spirit, our pastors are buried beneath a multitude of tasks and needs, often even to the extent of burning out.

secondly, scripture says, "for it is written: "I will destroy the wisdom of the wise." 1 cor 1:19 our Lord delights in revealing to the simple and humble of heart. not kings and great leaders were chosen to herald His birth, but simple shepherds busy tending their flock. "for My thoughts are not your thoughts, nor are your ways My ways," says the Lord." isa 55:8

Jesus said, "what! could you not watch with Me one hour? watch and pray, lest you enter into temptation. the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak."
matt 26:40-41 "what I say to you, I say to all:
watch!" mark 13:37
