

may 14

there's no return to normal

"the fruit that your soul longed for has gone from you, and all the things which are rich and splendid have gone from you, and you shall find them no more at all."
rev 18:14

when someone is on a plane, there always comes what they call a point of no return. in other words, it is now closer to go ahead than to go back. i think we have reached that in our society. i believe it was reached once before - in the days of noah (and we know what happened then).

i watch some of the people on youtube and they talk about hoarding gold and silver now because there will be such bargains that new millionaires will be made when this is over. they talk as if everything will be going back to like it was before. i just can't believe that.

friend, it was two thousand years ago when the apostle peter uttered these words: "the end of all things is at hand." 1 pet 4:7 do we think that to be not even more true now than it was then? no - we have passed the point of no return. i think the only thing lying in our "future" is a God rescue or extinction. and believe me, sometimes i wonder why He doesn't just let us destroy ourselves. but love.

the filth we now joy in wallowing in, the destruction of lives we are doing to the more innocent; are these not the days of lot all over again? will the judgment not be the same? abraham bartered God down from from fifty righteous to ten only, and still couldn't find them. (i wondered what percentage of todays population as compared to then, that would be?) there's a reason why these days are compared to the days of lot and noah.

thomas paine once wrote: "these are the times that try men's souls." he thought it was bad then and just look at us now. is it no wonder that the word says there will be a great falling away at the end; a great apostasy? yes, the love of many will wax cold from all they are witnesses around them. the lawless profit without punishment. why shouldn't they partake of the bounty also; the bounty of others.

if these things are happening now as the restrainer is still here, what will it be like among the unrestrained? yes, i know it appears in the flesh that the evil are winning, but in the spirit more is being withheld than we can ever imagine. daily in my prayers, along with praise, there is a binding of these evil spirits. "early will i destroy all the wicked of the land." psa 101:8 if we do our part, God will do His.

"why do the nations rage and the peoples plot a vain thing?" psa 2:1 it says God laughs. there is a judgment coming. there is a wrath to be poured out. it has been stored up for the day of wrath.

friends, it's no time to quit now; to allow ourselves to wax cold. we have passed the point of no return.

we can now see the finish line in sight. we are carrying the baton in the last lap of the race. let us no longer be doubting thomas' or double-minded souls. let us no longer profess God but deny His power.

i don't know if it's too late to save america or not. i hope it can be saved, but regardless, there are multitudes who will be dying in their sin and suffering the sorrow because of it. let us rescue as many as we can. take the limits off an unlimited God. dare to believe for more. there's no return - only forward!